Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

I. Claims 1-40, drawn to a method of cementing a "desired" location (ie a subterranean formation or well as this is what is meant in the disclosure), classified in class 166, subclass 292+.

II. Claims 41-68, drawn to a cement composition, classified in class 106, subclass 823+.

III. Claims 69-86, drawn to a dispersant (surfactant + co-surfactant), classified in class 524, subclass 5+.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case, the cement composition can be used to make a sidewalk, a building material, as a coating material, etc. In other words, uses other than cementing a well or subterranean "location". Should applicants argue that they do not teach cementing of wells or subterranean locations as limited usages, in order for both Groups I and II to be examined together, applicants must state for the record that they are obvious variants. Then, they will be examined together. Should they not do so, restriction between these two groups is proper.

Inventions I and III are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case, the dispersant can be used in a process for cleaning (e.g. environmental clean-up, for water treatment, for detergent compositions, etc which are outside mere usage in cement compositions.

Inventions II and III are related as mutually exclusive species in an intermediate-final product relationship. Distinctness is proven for claims in this relationship if the intermediate product is useful to make other than the final product (MPEP § 806.04(b), 3rd paragraph), and the species are patentably distinct (MPEP § 806.04(h)). In the instant case, the intermediate product is deemed to be useful as a cleaning composition, a detergent composition, etc. and the inventions are deemed patentably distinct since there is nothing on this record to show them to be obvious variants. Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions anticipated by the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification and search, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
